Where There's Committed Will There's A Way

Rev. Ann Wasson, FPC Hobart, is pictured here, performing a Renewal of Baptism Service, for 2010 church officers, concluding her "Worship and Sacraments" portion of FPC Officer Training Classes that were held in November. This training, a requirement for new officers, and for those Elders and Deacons continuing in service to the church, was made open to all and was very well attended.

Other presenters were Jack Huntress, Stated Clerk of Indian Nations Presbytery (Book of Order), Rev. Mark Henslee, Westminster Presbyterian Church, Lawton (Book of Confessions), Rev. Barbara Hunt, FPC Chickasha (The Great Ends of The Church), Elder Pat Evans, Westminster, OKC (History of Presbyterianism) and Elder Jim Brock, FPC, Lawton (Roles of Elders and Deacons).

Rev. Tracy Evans led each training session in prayer and with introductions of the individual presenters.

Where There's Good Will There's A Way

The day was warm, balmy and beautiful as sixteen members of our church family gathered at El Palacio Restaurant to wish a Happy November Birthday to Martha Coker, Bob Hofmann and Jerry Fleming

Where There's A Hungry Will There's A Way (or Even A Hungry Lonnie)

The next time Vicki Zimmerman holds a cooking class at FPC, you can join Sally, Alan and others and learn to prepare her gourmet meals – or – you can just get in line behind Lonnie and sample the tasty dishes she and her eager students prepare. Hey Vicki! When is your next class?

Where There's A Living Will There's A Way

"A Gift For Your Family", a November presentation by Rev. Tracy Evans – assisted by information & answers from Mike Grantham and Parish Nurse Jo Flanders, gave attendees valuable insights into many individual health, personal emergency and end of life issues. Information, planning and record keeping forms for these and related matters were made available to those attending.

The meeting was extended beyond its scheduled ending by a spirited Q & A session.
